

Neway ADZ Product – Change Notification

Market Notification for Upcoming Neway Powered Vehicle Suspension Product Changes

Effective: April 2026

Attention

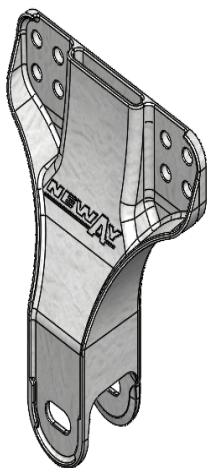

Beginning in April 2026, the Neway ADZ suspension with a 10-inch ride height frame brackets will feature a new cast ductile iron frame bracket, replacing the current cast steel design. The updated bracket will be available only in an adjustable configuration, eliminating the previous fixed and adjustable options. This change provides several key benefits:

- Commonality: The same bracket can now be used on either side of the vehicle.
- Simplified Inventory: Common hardware and fewer part numbers to manage.
- Enhanced Flexibility: Increased adjustment capability for easier installation and alignment.

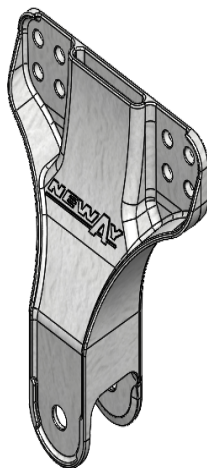

Despite the material and design updates, the overall form, fit, and function of the new frame bracket remain equivalent to the original. The images below show the current frame bracket design on the left and the new ductile iron version on the right.
